BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ROYAL ARMOURIES

CODE OF PRACTICE FOR TRUSTEES

March 2010
INTRODUCTION

This Code is modelled on the revised Guidance on Codes of Practice for Board Members of Public Bodies prepared by the Cabinet Office in February 2000. That document has been modified to take account of the powers and the duties of the Board of Trustees, as set out in the National Heritage Act 1983, of the status and role of the Royal Armouries as a national museum and an exempt charity, and of the organisation and circumstances of the Royal Armouries. This Code has no legal force and is not a prescriptive document detailing the duties of Trustees; rather it has been produced and approved by the Board and the Department for Culture, Media & Sport to provide Trustees with general guidance in the exercise of their responsibilities.

1 Public Service Values

The Royal Armouries and its Board of Trustees should at all times:

- Observe the highest standards of propriety involving impartiality, integrity and objectivity in relation to the stewardship of public funds and the management of the Royal Armouries;
- Maximize value for money through ensuring that services are delivered in the most economical, efficient and effective way, within available resources, and with independent validation of performance achieved wherever practicable. Value for money is not the lowest price: it is the optimum combination of whole life costs and quality to meet the user’s requirement;
- Be accountable to Parliament, users of services, individual citizens and staff for the activities of the Royal Armouries and their stewardship of public funds and the extent to which key performance targets and objectives have been met;
- In accordance with Government policy on openness and responsiveness, comply fully with the Code of Practice on Access to Government Information, and with the Nine Principles of Public Service Delivery.

2 Relationship with the Royal Armouries’ Sponsor Department

The Secretary of State for Culture, Media & Sport is answerable to Parliament for the policies and performance of the Royal Armouries, including its use of resources and the policy framework within which it operates. The respective roles of the Department and the Board of Trustees are set out in the National Heritage Act 1983. This is supplemented by: a Financial Memorandum which specifies the terms on which the Royal Armouries receives and spends funds provided by the Secretary of State; by an annual Funding Agreement signed by both parties; and by a Strategic Business Plan prepared by the Royal Armouries and approved by the Department.
3 The Role of the Chairman

a) The Chairman has particular responsibility for providing effective strategic leadership on matters such as:

- Formulating the Board’s strategy for discharging its statutory duties;
- Ensuring that the Board carries out its corporate responsibilities;
- Ensuring that Trustees fulfil their individual responsibilities;
- Encouraging high standards of propriety and promoting the efficient and effective use of staff and other resources throughout the organisation;
- Ensuring that the Board, in reaching decisions, takes proper account of guidance provided by the Secretary of State, the responsible Minister or the Department for Culture, Media & Sport;
- Representing the views of the Board to the general public; and
- Providing an assessment of the performance of individual Trustees, on request, when they are being considered for re-appointment to the Board or for appointment to the board of some other public body.

b) The Chairman should ensure that the Board meets at regular intervals throughout the year and that the minutes of meetings accurately record the decisions taken and, where appropriate, the views of individual Trustees (see Appendix 2).

c) Communications between the Board and the Secretary of State for Culture, Media & Sport or one of his or her Ministers should normally be through the Chairman except where the Board has agreed that an individual member should act on its behalf. Nevertheless, an individual Trustee has the right of access to Ministers on any matter which he or she believes raises important issues relating to his or her duties as a member of the Board. In such cases the agreement of the rest of the Board should normally be sought. The main point of contact between the body and the sponsor department on day to day matters will normally be the Director General and Master of the Armouries acting on the Trustees and the Board’s behalf.

d) The Chairman should ensure that all Trustees, when taking up office, are fully briefed on the terms of their appointment and on their duties, rights and responsibilities. The Chairman and other Trustees should each have a copy of this Code of Practice and the staff’s Code of Conduct, together with: the founding statute; the Financial Memorandum; the current Funding Agreement; the latest Corporate Plan, Report to Parliament and Annual Accounts; the Treasury’s memorandum The Responsibilities of an NDPB Accounting Officer, the Treasury’s handbook Regularity and Propriety; notes describing the body’s organisational structure and the rules and procedures of the Board. The Chairman should encourage new Trustees to attend an induction course on the duties of board members of public bodies or some other suitable form of induction programme.
4 Corporate Responsibilities of Trustees

Trustees have corporate responsibility for ensuring that the Royal Armouries complies with all statutory and administrative requirements for its use of public funds. Other important responsibilities of Board members include:

- Ensuring that high standards of corporate governance are observed at all times;
- Establishing the overall strategic direction of the organisation within the policy and resources framework agreed with the Secretary of State for Culture, Media & Sport;
- Ensuring that the Board operates within the limits of its statutory authority and any delegated authority agreed with the Department for Culture, Media & Sport, and in accordance with any other conditions relating to the use of public funds;
- Ensuring, in reaching decisions the Board had taken into account any guidance issued by the Department for Culture, Media & Sport;
- Approving key objectives and targets;
- Overseeing the delivery of planned results by monitoring performance;
- Overseeing the Director General and Master of the Armouries in carrying out his or her responsibilities and duties with regard to strategy, targets and achievements; monitoring his or her performance and assessing it in relation to performance-related pay;
- Formulating a strategy for implementing the Code of Practice on Access to Government Information, including prompt responses to public requests for information, and meeting other requirements for openness and responsiveness as set out in Quangos: Opening the Doors;
- Ensuring the Board has specific responsibility for sustainable development and operates within the framework of the Sustainable Development Strategy, following the priorities set by the Green Minister of the Department for Culture, Media & Sport;
- Ensuring that the Board operates sound environmental policies in its operations through a strategy, which should be based on the Model Policy Statement for Greening Government Operations and its sister document the Model Improvement Programme for Greening Operations.

5 Strategic Planning and Control

One of the main tasks of the Board is oversight of the production of strategic business plans. The process of preparing such documents provides an opportunity for agreeing, with the Secretary of State, his or her responsible Minister or officials on his or her behalf, the policy and resources framework within which the Royal Armouries will discharge its duties; and for determining its key strategic objectives and targets. Such targets should normally cover areas such as: the organisation’s financial performance; the efficiency and effectiveness of its operations; and the quality of the services it provides. Where final outputs cannot easily be measured and it is therefore difficult to set suitable performance targets the Board should aim to agree carefully formulated strategic objectives and milestones.
6 Delegation

a) Trustees serve on a part-time unpaid basis. To the extent permitted by the founding statute, within a clearly understood framework of strategic control, and as far as is practicable, Trustees delegate to the officers of the Armouries responsibility for day to day management.

b) The Board may decide to delegate responsibility for specified matters, where it has power to do so, to individual Trustees or Committees of the Board. Decisions taken by individual Trustees or Committees of the Board under delegated powers should be recorded in written minutes available to the Board as a whole.

7 Responsibilities of Individual Trustees

a) Individual Trustees should be aware of their wider responsibilities as members of the Board. Like others who serve the public, they should follow the Seven Principles of Public Life set out by the Committee on Standards in Public Life. The principles are printed at Appendix 1. Trustees must:

- Undertake on appointment to comply at all times with the Armouries’ current Code of Practice for Trustees and with rules relating to the use of public funds;
- Act in good faith and in the best interests of the Royal Armouries;
- Ensure that they comply with the Board’s rules on the acceptance of gifts and hospitality (see Guidance below);
- Not misuse information gained in the course of their public service for personal gain and for political purpose, nor seek to use the opportunity of public service to promote their private interests or those of connected persons, firms, businesses or other organisations; and to declare publicly any private interests which may be perceived to conflict with their public duties; and
- Not use their official position to receive, agree to accept or attempt to obtain any payment or other consideration for doing, or not doing, anything or showing favour, or disfavour, to any person. They should not receive benefits of any kind from a third party which might reasonably be seen to compromise their personal judgment and integrity. Under the Prevention of Corruption Act 1916, employees of public bodies, of which the Royal Armouries is one, may be required to prove that the receipt of payment or other consideration from someone seeking to obtain a contract is not corrupt.

Guidance: Trustees should never accept a personal gift or favour from any person or organisation that might subsequently be interpreted as an inducement to trade with, or further the purposes of, the person or organisation. Isolated gifts of a trivial character or small seasonal gifts are the only exceptions to this.
b) Trustees are expected not to occupy paid party political posts or undertake particularly sensitive or high profile unpaid roles in a political party. Subject to that, Trustees are free to engage in political activities, provided that they are conscious of their general public responsibilities and exercise a proper discretion, particularly in regard to the work of the Board. On matters directly affecting that work, they should not make political speeches or engage in other political activities.

c) The restrictions in paragraph 7b do not apply to Trustees who are MPs, to local councillors or to Peers in relation to their conduct in the House of Lords. The position of Peers in this regard is covered by a statement reproduced as Annex L to Non Departmental Public Bodies: A Guide for Departments.

d) The arrangements for appointing Trustees make it possible to remove any Trustee who fails to perform the duties required of them to the standards expected of persons who hold public office.

e) Trustees will be accorded reasonable reimbursement of costs for undertaking their unpaid role. Claims should be supported by the production of receipts, which should be sent to the Company Administrator. Claims will be signed off by the Chairman or Director General & Master. Refer to Appendix 5 for more detail.

8 Handling Conflicts of Interests

a) The Chairman and other Trustees should declare any personal or business interests which may conflict with their responsibilities as Board members. The Board, in consultation with the Department for Culture, Media & Sport, should draw up rules of conduct for Trustees which ensure that such conflicts are identified at an early stage and that appropriate action can be taken to resolve them.

b) A register of interests will be kept and updated bi-annually by the Company Administrator using information provided by Trustees. This register will list direct or indirect pecuniary interests which members of the public might reasonably think could influence Trustees’ judgment. Trustees are strongly encouraged also to register non-pecuniary interests which relate closely to the body’s activities, and interests of close family members and persons living in the same household as the Trustee. (Note; Cabinet Office Guidance, February 2000 defines indirect interest as follows: Indirect pecuniary interests arise from connections with bodies which have a direct pecuniary interest or from being a business partner, or being employed by, a person with such an interest. Non-pecuniary interests include those arising from membership of clubs and other organisations. Close family members include personal partners, parents, children - adult or minor -, brothers, sisters and the personal partner of any of these.)

c) This register of interests MUST be made available to the public on request. Details of how access can be obtained must be made widely available and be included in annual and triennial reports to Parliament.
d) In the absence of specific statutory provisions, the common law requires:

- That members of public bodies should not participate in the discussion or determination of matters in which they have a direct pecuniary interest; and
- That when an interest is not of a direct pecuniary kind, members should consider whether participation in the discussion or determination of a related matter would suggest a real danger of bias. This should be interpreted in the sense that Trustees might, either unwittingly or otherwise unfairly, regard with favour or disfavour the case of a party to the matter under consideration. In considering whether a real danger of bias exists in relation to a particular decision, Trustees should assess whether they, a close family member, a person living in the same household as the Trustee or a firm, business or organisation with which the Trustee is connected are likely to be affected more than the generality of those affected by the decision in question. This would cover, for example, a decision to invite tenders for a contract where a firm with which a Trustee was connected was significantly better placed than others to win it.

e) Where, in accordance with the above, Trustees do not participate in the discussion or determination of a matter, they should normally withdraw from the meeting. This is because the continued presence of someone who had declared an interest might be thought likely to influence the judgment of the other members present.

f) Whether or not Trustees are able “in the light of the considerations above” to participate in the discussion or determination of a matter, they should declare as soon as practicable after a meeting begins if they have an interest, pecuniary or other, in a matter being considered. They should also disclose any interests in it of which they are aware on the part of close family members and persons living in the same household as the Trustee. In addition, Trustees should give careful consideration to registering non-pecuniary interests of other persons or organisations which members of the public might reasonably think could influence the member’s judgment.

g) Because the Royal Armouries is normally required to follow generally accepted accounting practice, Trustees must facilitate compliance with the need under Financial Reporting Standard 8 for material transactions with related parties to be disclosed in financial statements. “Related parties” in FRS 8 include (in addition to business contacts) close members of the family of an individual, who are defined for the purposes of the standard as those family members, or members of the same household, who may be expected to influence, or be influenced by, that person in their dealings with the reporting entity.

Trustees should seek to prevent conflicts of interests arising from the acceptance of outside appointments during or after their tenure as a Trustee, taking account of guidance in Chapter 7 of Non Departmental Public Bodies: A Guide for Departments. Therefore, all Trustees both during their tenure of office and for three years thereafter, should inform the Chairman in writing of any appointment they have been offered so that due and formal consideration may be given to any implications for the Board. After such due consideration the Trustee or ex-Trustee will be informed of the Board’s position in writing by the Chairman.

9 Personal Liability of Trustees

a) Although any legal proceedings initiated by a third party are likely to be brought against the Board, in exceptional cases proceedings (civil or, in certain cases, criminal) may be brought against the Chairman or other individual Trustees. For example, a Trustee may be personally liable if he or she makes a fraudulent or negligent statement which results in loss to a third party. Trustees who misuse information gained by virtue of their position may be liable for breach of confidence under common law or may commit a criminal offence under insider dealing legislation.

b) However the Government has indicated that individual Trustees who have acted honestly and in good faith will not have to meet out of their own personal resources any personal civil liability which is incurred in execution or purported execution of their Board functions, save where the person has acted recklessly.

c) Trustees who need further advice may consult the Board’s legal advisers.

10 Openness and Responsiveness

a) Trustees and their staff must conduct all their dealings with the public in an open and responsible way and ensure full compliance with the Code of Practice on Access to Government Information. They should take account as far as possible of the Standard of Best Practice for Openness in Executive NDPBs and NHS bodies in the First Report of the Committee on Standards in Public Life (Cm 2850-1). They must make publicly available an Annual Report as part of the Annual Accounts laid before parliament (see 12b below), and every three years lay before Parliament a detailed stewardship report. They must consult openly and widely over major changes in policy that will have fundamental effects upon the environments in which the museum works and the communities that it serves. The Government’s commitments in this area are set out in Quangos: Opening the Doors. In particular the Royal Armouries seeks to follow best practice in making available information to the public, including through the World Wide Web, and to co-operate with other bodies, such as local authorities, to place relevant information in the public domain.

b) Trustees must ensure they can demonstrate that they are using resources to good effect, with propriety, and without grounds for criticism that public funds are being used for private, partisan or party political purposes. They must act consistently with the nature of the Royal Armouries’ duties and responsibilities and the possible need for confidentiality on commercial or other grounds, always subject to the rights of Parliament and the Comptroller and Auditor General to obtain information. There should be well-publicised and easy to use complaints procedures which cover both mal-administration and failure to provide access to information (see Appendix 3).

11 Accountability for Public Funds

a) Trustees have a duty to ensure the safeguarding of public funds – which for this purpose should be taken to include all forms of receipts from fees, charges and other sources – and the proper custody of assets which have been publicly funded. They must take appropriate measures to ensure that the Royal Armouries at all times conducts its operations as economically, efficiently and effectively as possible, with full regard to the relevant statutory provisions and to relevant guidance in Government Accounting.

b) Trustees are responsible for ensuring that the body does not exceed its powers or functions as defined in statute, or through any limitations on its authority to incur expenditure. They are normally advised on these matters by the officers and their legal advisers.

12 Annual Report and Accounts

a) As part of its responsibilities for the stewardship of public funds, the Board must ensure that it includes a full statement of the use of such resources in its Annual Report and Accounts. Such accounts should be prepared in accordance with the Accounts Direction issued by the Secretary of State for the Department for Culture, Media & Sport and such other guidance as may be issued, from time to time, by the Department for Culture, Media & Sport and the Treasury¹, including Executive Non-Departmental Public Bodies: Annual Reports and Accounts Guidance.

b) Subject to current statutory requirements, the Board should aim to produce an Annual Report and Accounts as a single document and should give it appropriate publicity. A summary of the relevant Annual Accounts should be given in the Triennial Report to Parliament and a statement by the auditors should be included to confirm that it is consistent with the Annual Accounts. It should also state whether the report on any of the relevant Annual Accounts was qualified and provide details if this was the case.

c) The Annual Report and Accounts should provide a full description of the Board’s activities; state the extent to which key strategic objectives and agreed financial and other performance targets have been met; list the names of the current members of the Board and senior staff; and provide details of the remuneration of Trustees and senior staff in accordance with Treasury guidance. The Annual Report should contain information on access to registers of interests in accordance with paragraph 8 above.

The Role of the Director General and Master of the Armouries

a) The Director General and Master of the Armouries has responsibility, under the Board, for the overall organisation, management, and staffing of the Armouries and for its procedures in financial and other matters, including conduct and discipline. Board members should support the Director General and Master of the Armouries in undertaking this responsibility.

b) The Director General and Master of the Armouries is designated as the Accounting Officer for the Armouries. The Director General and Master of the Armouries and the Accounting Officer of the Department for Culture, Media & Sport, are responsible to Parliament for the resources under their control. The essence of the role is a personal responsibility for the propriety and regularity of the public finances for which they are answerable; for the keeping of proper accounts; for prudent and economical administration; for the avoidance of waste and extravagance; and for the efficient and effective use of all the resources in their charge. The Director General and Master of the Armouries has a responsibility to see that appropriate advice is tendered to the Board on all these matters. Satisfactory performance of these responsibilities is fundamental to the role of the Director General and Master of the Armouries.

c) More detailed guidance on the role of an Accounting Officer is set out in The Responsibilities of an NDPB Accounting Officer, which covers appearances before the Committee of Public Accounts of the House of Commons. All Trustees should ensure that they have a copy of this document. The Treasury’s handbook, Regularity and Propriety, describes what these concepts mean in a financial context. Although the handbook is intended primarily for Accounting Officers, Trustees should also familiarise themselves with it.

d) The Director General & Master of the Armouries has responsibility for the day to day management of the museum, for leading on business planning, and for developing wider museum strategy.

e) The Director General and Master of the Armouries reports to the Board on business strategy, targets and achievements.

Audit Committee

The Board shall have an Audit Committee – details in Appendix 2.1.2.
15 The Board as Employer

a) The Board should ensure:

- That the officers comply with relevant legislation and that suitably qualified staff are employed who will discharge their responsibilities in accordance with the high standards expected of staff employed by National Museums. All staff should be familiar with the Royal Armouries' main aims and objectives;
- That the Royal Armouries adopts management practices which use resources in the most economical, efficient and effective manner;
- That the Royal Armouries' rules for the recruitment and management of staff provide for appointment and advancement on merit on the basis of equal opportunity for all applicants and staff;
- In filling senior staff appointments, the Board should satisfy itself that an adequate internal and external field of qualified candidates is considered;
- That both Trustees and officers have appropriate access to expert advice and training opportunities (in line with wider Government commitments on training strategies).

b) The Board should adopt a Code of Conduct for its staff using the model issued for executive NDPBs by the Cabinet Office in August 1996, subject to any modifications that may be necessary - and that are agreed with the Department for Culture, Media & Sport - to take account of the particular characteristics and circumstances of the Armouries and to take proper regard of codes of professional conduct to which staff themselves may have to subscribe.

c) The Board has a responsibility to monitor the performance of the Director General and Master of the Armouries. The Board will appoint a Remuneration Committee. This will advise the Board on the appropriate level of remuneration for the Director General and Master of the Armouries and agree this with the Department for Culture, Media & Sport; it will assess the entitlement to performance related pay, ensuring that it has access to the information and advice required to make the necessary judgments.
APPENDIX 1

THE SEVEN PRINCIPLES OF PUBLIC LIFE

Selflessness

Holders of public office should take decision solely in terms of the public interest. They should not do so in order to gain financial or other material benefits for themselves, their family, or their friends.

Integrity

Holders of public office should not place themselves under any financial or other obligation to outside individuals or organisations that might influence them in the performance of their official duties.

Objectivity

In carrying out public business, including making public appointments, awarding contracts, or recommending individuals for rewards and benefits, holders of public office should make choices on merits.

Accountability

Holders of public office are accountable for their decisions and actions to the public and must submit themselves to whatever scrutiny is appropriate to their office.

Openness

Holders of public office should be as open as possible about all the decisions and actions that they take. They should give reasons for their decisions and restrict information only when the wider public interest clearly demands.

Honesty

Holders of public office have a duty to declare any private interests relating to their public duties and to take steps to resolve any conflicts arising in a way that protects the public interests.

COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

The Royal Armouries strives to ensure that its products and services exceed statutory and customer requirements and that the organisation is responsive to customer’s enquiries and complaints.

All complaints received by post are forwarded to the Director General and Master of the Armouries' Office for control purposes. Complaints are logged onto a computer file when they are received and read by the Director General and Master of the Armouries. If necessary, a draft reply from the relevant Royal Armouries department is sourced. The Director General and Master of the Armouries sends a personal reply to these complaints and hard copies of all correspondence are filed in the complaints file held in the Director General and Master of the Armouries’ Office. The Royal Armouries aims to complete this process within 10 working days of receipt of the complaint.

A comment card system is operated by the Royal Armouries Visitor Services Department where cards can either be posted or handed in to the Visitor Services Information Desk. The Visitor Services Manager reviews all comments and ensures that a response goes out to complaints that request a reply. All correspondence is kept on file.

Complaints made by telephone to both the Director General and Master of the Armouries’ Office and Visitor Services are investigated, a return call made and the telephone call followed up with a letter (unless very minor). All correspondence of this nature is logged within the relevant files.

Should any complaint or enquiry not be satisfied by the above response from the Director General and Master of the Armouries’ Office, information will be forwarded to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees for attention.

TRAVEL & SUBSISTENCE EXPENSES FOR TRUSTEES

1. GENERAL RULES

As defined by the Charity Commission, expenses are refunds by a charity of legitimate payments which a trustee has had to meet personally in order to carry out his or her trustee duties. Expense claims should normally be for the actual cost or expense; and be supported by bills or receipts, except where it is impractical to expect this, for example, where very small amounts are claimed. So long as the Royal Armouries only pays the trustee for the actual cost or expense, the payment is not taxable.

Any misuse of charity assets for private benefit can damage public confidence in a charity, can affect that charity's ability to operate for the public benefit. This is likely to be viewed as mismanagement or misconduct. A trustee involved in such matters might also be liable to repay the charity for any excessive or false trustee expense claims.

2. WHAT CAN BE CLAIMED?

- The actual cost of travelling to and from trustee meetings (including travel insurance under the Royal Armouries' insurance policy), and on trustee business and events. This can include the cost of using public transport, taxi fares, and petrol allowances to the level permitted by HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) before tax becomes payable. When travelling by train or air, standard class travel should normally be used with the following exemptions which should be pre-approved by the Chairman: train journeys over two hours, when going straight to work at journey's end, or for air travel of more than four hours.

- Reasonable refunds for the cost of meals taken while on Royal Armouries business at the same rates as allowed for senior staff in the Royal Armouries' T&S and/or Gifts and Hospitality Policies.

- The reasonable cost of childcare, or care of other dependants (for example, an elderly parent) whilst attending trustee meetings.

- The actual cost of postage and telephone calls on Royal Armouries business.

- The costs of a trustee's telephone rental and broadband subscription, so long as these are split to reflect the percentage of time relating to usage on behalf of the Royal Armouries.

- Translating documents into Braille for a blind trustee, or into different languages; provision of alerting and listening devices, and other special aids for those with hearing impairment.
• The costs of training courses, materials and publications relevant to trusteeship.

• Providing special transport, equipment or facilities for a trustee with a disability.

• The actual cost of reasonable overnight accommodation and subsistence (including any essential care costs) while attending trustee meetings or other essential events such as voluntary sector conferences or specialist training courses. The same criteria should be used as laid down in the Royal Armouries’ T&S policy.

3. WHAT IS INADMISSIBLE?

• Accommodation or travel costs for spouses or partners who are not themselves travelling on charity business.

• Payment of private telephone bills for business unrelated to the charity.

• Payment of private medical insurance.

• Motor mileage rates above the levels approved by HMRC for claimable expenses.

4. SUBMITTING CLAIMS

Claims should be made using the Royal Armouries’ standard forms supported by receipts. These should be sent to the Company Administrator. Claims will be signed off by the Chairman or Director General & Master and paid directly into bank accounts.
